SHORT TALKS WITH THE SCRIBES OF THE COUNTY PRESS.

Refusing the Telfair Mansion at Savannah—Johnson County on the Temperance Question—A Train Near Griffin—Other News.

Speaking of the Telfair mansion, the Savannah News says: "The work of refitting the Telfair mansion, on St. James square, now Telfair place as well as the Telfair academy of arts and sciences, has been progressing slowly, in accordance with the plans approved by the board of managers. The work which was begun some months ago, was suspended until the return of the manager, Mr. Bradt, who was sent to Europe to superintend works of art and antiquities. Now, York, and the work is being performed with his approval. Under the terms of the will of Miss Telfair the board of managers are required to limit the improvements so as not to essentially change the architectural features of the original structure. Hence, though several necessary improvements have been made in the building, they are not of such a character as will change its general appearance."

The grand jury of Milton county returned but ten bills, or one for every 800 inhabitants.

Piedmont Press: Roberts, the Lumpkin county prisoner, who was condemned to die in jail, has been granted a new trial by the supreme court. Roberts protests his innocence and says they have him in jail, but he had nothing to do with the killing of Gaddie.

There is a party in Athens who has a relative that married at the age of one hundred years, and who had three children by this marriage and lived long enough to see the youngest of the three vote. This seems incredible, but it is nevertheless true and can be vouched for by undoubted authority. A grand nephew of this old gentleman is now a Baptist clergyman in Griffin.

The Sylvan Telephone says that Mr. John Goff and Miss Mary Goff were married on New Year's Day night. They were purchased about six years ago, and are said to have been lovers in the morning of life. Their young love's dream has now been realized.

Summer Republican: Tuesday night when the indications of another terrible storm hung their black banners of destruction in the heavens, and the world trembled with fear, the people of Griffin, like a host of goblins in a arch of prey Captain William Howe gathered his family into a large pit, which he called his storm refuge. He shut the door, and took things quiet until the next morning, when he came out with a son from breaking from his heart and mouth, and mouth, and mouth, and mouth.

Mrs. T. Warren Ross, of Bartow county, has located in Jacksonville, Fla., where he will practice law.

The families of deceased members of the different mutual aid societies of Covington have received $10,000 benefits since the lodges were opened.

Crawford News: Daniel High will colored, living at 10 W. Broad street, was indicted on March 1st, was at that place last Sunday, having for a mate fifteen or twenty five fine homes of rags and meat as we ever saw. Lem is one of those hard working colored men, his wife is a widow from Spring and Dr. Mitchell, of Rock Spring, has moved to Tennessee.

Calhoun, Georgia.

CALHOUN, February 26.—The superior court of Gordon county convened here this morning. Judge J. C. Fair presiding. A large number of the prominent lawyers at the circuit are in attendance, Dalton and Cartersville being well represented.

J. McCamy, W. G. Clegg, Senator Thomas E. Jones and W. K. Moore. From the latter, J. M. Conner, R. C. Clegg, S. H. Scales and W. H. Harris, Jr., soliciting the case. The cause involved in the original suit, and the call of cases began by noon.

Much interest was felt in the judge's charge to the jury, in which he told them that the law of the state of Georgia was the same as that of the nation.

Mr. McCamy was a successful candidate in a county election. The scene was indeed a most ludicrous one and there every conceivable laugh was witnessed.

THE CONSTITUTION,
ATLANTA, GEORGIA.

ATLANTA, GA., FEBRUARY 27, 1884.

INDICATIONS for the south Atlantic states: fair weather, northerly to westerly winds, generally higher barometer, nearly stationary followed by lower temperature on Wednesday night.

The senate is now struggling with the problem of how to organize an efficient navy. The first step necessary would be to dispose of the republican party.

The debators in the house of representatives are still engaging the attention of the country with their eloquence, and now promise a session extending until the other end of September.

High art has long been making its way in Atlanta, but it has not a little too high recently for some people with acute vision. And after the excitement is over high art will continue to make progress.

SERGEANT BATES, the deadbeat who recently carried the banner through Atlanta, has written a long letter to the Chicago Inter-Ocean from Richmond, in which he pronounces for the republican party, on the ground that there is dormant rebellion in the south. The sergeant did not get enough cold pie to sustain his demorality.

THE PLEURO-PNEUMONIA BILL.

The bill to appropriate $250,000 in order to establish a bureau of animal industry which shall prevent the exportation of diseased cattle, and be especially charged with the suppression of pleuro-pneumonia among domestic animals, has been under discussion in the house several days. It has the support of the republicans and several western democrats, and it may be passed in the house, but it will not receive the votes of such old-fashioned democrats as Mr. Eaton, of Connecticut. When the bill was discussed on Saturday Mr. Hardeman improved the opportunity to express his objections to it. Despite his deep interest in all matters relating to agriculture, he stated that he could not vote for a bill that tramples upon all constitutional limitations. The pending bill ignores state lines and the reserved rights of the state, and imposes upon the general government police powers that can alone be exercised by the states. If it becomes a law the commissioner of agriculture will be empowered to prepare a code for the cattle trade, and if his regulations are disregarded he can stop shipments of cattle, seize such as he deems objectionable, and kill cattle at his discretion. He will practically control the cattle trade. Mr. Hardeman objects to the bill on the ground that it aims to vest in the general government duties that belong to the states.

He further considers the bill unnecessary. He quoted from a paper read before the National stock raisers' convention by Dr. Salmon, of the department of agriculture, at the instance of Commissioner Loring, showing that the loss from pleuro-pneumonia does not exceed $100,000 a year. No case of it has ever been found west of the Allegheny mountains; and "east of the Alleghenies," says Dr. Salmon, "if you except a single farm in Connecticut, a half dozen farms in Pennsylvania, and perhaps dozen in New Jersey, it may be truthfully said that there are no evidences of this disease at present beyond the immediate vicinity of a few large cities—New York, Brooklyn, Newark, Baltimore, and possibly Washington."

In the hot haste to concentrate power in the central government it is certainly crowding to take from the states the power to control the cattle of their citizens, when there is no necessity, no urgency, no danger of wide spread loss, in view. It would be a clear case of federal usurpation. It will certainly be soon enough to deprive a state of the right to regulate its internal affairs when some pressing need of a remedy is upon us; that the states cannot or will not supply.

THE EXPORT OF GOLD.

A small amount of gold has been exported, where will be doubtless, because sterling bills will admit of shipments without loss. She state of things may be maintained several weeks or even months, but the chances are that the price of grain and provisions will fall, so that they can be sent forward at a profit, instead of gold, to meet the bills that our extravagance is responsible for. We have large quantities of grain and provisions to sell—large quantities of both that we do not need, and if we are willing or become willing to sell cheaper than other surplus countries, foreign trade would again be in our favor.

We shall hear no more about gold shipping. This may be the case a week since there may be no change until the new harness cause of the shipments of gold is of course the shipments of gold will be held in Philadelphia.

CINCINNATI now claims to be the Madrid of America. So we had understood along that we were premature in the Jonesboro of Ohio.

PERSONAL INTELLIGENCE.

M. Zola's new novel is said by the critics of Paris to be poor and weak.

MILLE RHEE has met with great success in the new play from the French, entitled "A Terrible Woman."

TOM BILLINGS has had a bequest of $5,000 left to him by a western lumber millionaire who admires his spelling.—Lowell Courier.

The Capitol says that Fred Douglass has all his children quartered on the public or clerks. Fred is certainly very near to being a white man.

The re-election of the prince of Wales as grand master of the Free Masons, which will occur on the 5th of March, will be the occasion of a great Masonic ceremonial.

ROWELL, Fitzgerald and several pedestrians of lesser note met in New York last week and agreed to a plan for a six-day race, to begin on the 25th of March for the amount of gold contained in the arts.

With a stock of gold amounting to $53 millions in hand we need not dread a loss of 20 millions or even 30 millions. We can spare that amount without affecting prices or the business interests of the country, and without affecting our standing in the eyes of the world. If we can not sell our products or our securities we can spare a portion of our gold, and our financial condition will not be in the least impaired.

THE IMMIGRATION QUESTION.

On the 11th of next month the Southern Immigrant Association will meet in Nashville, and during three days every feature of immigration will be discussed by some of the best speakers and most thoughtful men in the south. Let us hope that it will be largely attended, and that every city and every community almost will be represented. The association embraces all the southern states south of the Potomac, and its purpose is not only to attract immigration from Europe, but also to turn the tide of farmers from the northeast to the south—to present in others the advantages of Georgia or Arkansas in contrast with Dakota or western Kansas. It is proposed to establish both on the south Atlantic coast and the Gulf depots similar to Castle Garden for the reception of immigrants. It is also proposed to make the advantages of the southern states known to the people of the north who are looking for new homes. The facts of the situation are with us, but we have not made them known; and as this can only be done by organization, the new movement should be particularly encouraged. Let us hope that the Nashville convention will not be content with words. It should be bold and practical. It should inaugurate measures, and call on state legislatures and the people throughout the south to respond. If there is no response, then will of course be no immigration, but the responsibility will then rest where it belongs. At present the people have no one to act through. They cannot meet the organized efforts of the railroad companies of the northwest, because organization must be pitted against organization in order to win. The Nashville convention can take steps to furnish what we lack, and it should do so.

GARCIA, the gaucho, who recently became a tramp monk, must have been a phenomenal player. For a time in Germany the career of this prince of gamblers was one unbroken series of triumphs. He broke bank after bank, pocketed million after million, and drove prunes and speculators to desperation and despair. Three days ago Garcia broke the bank at Hamburg, winning $100,000 francs. The amount increased as he gambled, and reached $1,000,000. Garcia met this by staking from 12,000 francs to 60,000. Garcia met this by staking the full limit each time, and winner. The manager of the bank raised several millions to contain the comet. Garcia finally cleaned out the bank to the last franc and marched to his hotel with a numerous retinue of liveried servants carrying the sacks of money which he had won. A challenge came from Weishaden to the effect that the bank in that place could not be broken. One day Garcia made his appearance with an enormous capital. He played for the highest stakes permitted, and in a few hours broke the bank, winning 500,000 francs in a single sitting. The star of this wonderful man was eclipsed at Baden. Unfortunately the Duke de Mory met him in that city and bantered him to break the bank. Garcia had no desire to play but yielded. Look, for the first time in his life, the gaucho had written on his life he lost the millions he had so highly won. If this Waterloo did not break Garcia's heart it broke his confidence in his lucky star. He abandoned the green cloth, went into a monastery and became the saint of monks.

MR. PENDRILL now indicates that he believes the civil service reform which he was instrumental in having forced upon the country is fraud. This is true. Mr. Pendrill was used as a tool by the republican reformers. He had nothing to do with preparing the bill, but introduced it to be passed.

THE MANUFACTURE of steamship engines in 1880. By 1845 $30,000 had been collected by private subscriptions, and the sum of $20,000 was expended in raising the obelisk to the height of 174 feet. In 1876 the government took charge of the work, and has since appropriated $90,000. The monument is now a trifles over 400 feet in height, and its total cost thus far has been $95,000, with a balance of $150,000 on hand, which will complete the work. The obelisk will be completed by December, the base being fifty-five feet and the height 55 feet, overtopping all other constructions of human hands, the spires of the Cologne cathedral being 55 feet or fifty feet lower than the Washington monument. When finished the weight of the structure will be 80,000 tons. The shaft will be creditable to Washington and to the people whose patriotic devotion it reared in.

Atlanta Mayor A. Kins Gets Into Trouble

Blamed for The Eff of a Spur.

Household manipulators were brought front in police circles again yesterday.

Only yesterday morning J. M. Briscoe, of man, approached Peter Bassford and told him he had been sent out by his superior and was to meet him at the L. D.

and A. H. Ward. Briscoe appeared under the influence of liquor and the gentleman declined to act in the matter him-but referred the complaint to his cometing officer, Captain Crim. Briscoe noticing Captain had been acquainted in doing business and had been gaming too. This was a suffering accusation against Bassford and Captain at once, ordered his arrest. He then met them in the city prison with the three men and Bassford and Bassford was released.

Howard and Bass compeled, but then made a kick. The kick did no good, about fifty dollars were brought to light.

Howard and Bass denied having gamed with Briscoe and Briscoe's defended it. Briscoe claimed that he had had a room with two men last night but had lost all he had with him and got his check for fifty dollars in addition. The captain decided to detain them;

one was required to give a bond for a appearance before Judge Tanner this morning. They did, and then they were released.

Mr. Wright, who has been holding a fair in the basement of the new courthouse, last night held a meeting of the vestrymen of St. Philip's church, which was held in the vestry room of the church last night for the purpose of considering the selection of a master. There was full attendance but no definite action was taken in regard to the master. Letters were read from quite a number, some making application for the position, while others were giving reasons why they should not be selected. The vestrymen thought best not to make their selection just yet, but to wait and move very cautiously in the matter. They are determined to make their choice of a rector a wise one, and therefore do not wish to act hastily.

room and feeling unusually out of place began to bring a family row. Some of these little miseries had occurred in Patrolman Christophe, but as soon as the Frenchman caught a glimpse of the brass buttons he made a break for the back yard. Patrolman Curtis followed. In the back yard there is a well and straight for the well the man went. When he reached the edge he grabbed the well rope and sprang over the head foremost. The rope was around a windlass, and when the Frenchman's weight made itself known the windlass began to revolve, the rope to unwrap, and like lightning the man went down until he struck the well bottom and was cold, and not being accustomed to bathe the Frenchman raised a yell. The leap was witnessed by a number of people and in an instant the well was surrounded. Some one told the man to get into the bucket and hold tight. He did so and by sheer strength he was pulled up, but when the first sight of the patrolman he jumped down into the bucket and made his second descent into the well. The fall was fully twenty feet, and as soon as he struck the water the second time he yelled out: "Z-e-p-e! Z-e-p-e down down!"

The rope went down again, and again the party grew. An Americanized citizen was brought out when Patrolman Curtis haltered him his wife begged so strenuously for his release that it was granted upon his promising to go and sin no more.

NO RECTOR YET.

St. Philip's Vestrymen Fail to Make a Selection of Rector for the Parish.

A meeting of the vestrymen of St. Philip's church was held in the vestry room of the church last night for the purpose of considering the selection of a master. HIT IN THE FACE.

A Hit in the Mouth House Between Hon. G. J. Wright and Colonel Eyr.

The spring fights have begun. The first of the series occurred last night in the Markham house rounds, and although a great deal of blood was spilt.

Two hooded fencers fought yesterday afternoon near the car shed. Ed. Beckwith was on the head and won a bad scalp by his opponent.

Hon. W. E. Smith, W. T. Jones, J. W. Watson and D. H. Pope of Albany, are in the city attending supreme court. They are staying at the Second Baptist church to-night. Fred is a man of culture and power, and is honored and beloved by his Baptist brethren.

The Metropolitan street-car company have made very rapid progress within the last week. They have run the line out from Butler to Fair, and are now turned into Fair. If the pleasant weather continues they hope to have the track completed to the cemetery by the 15th of March. They intend to put a car on to run to Fair the first part of next week. This will probably be one of the best lines in the city, and the end of the road is laid with Belgian blocks.

For the past week the members of St. Paul's have been holding a fair in the basement of the new courthouse. Last night it was very well attended, and all seemed to be well satisfied with the arrangements.

There were two contestants, Messrs. Beck and Robbins. There is also a beautiful rocking chair, for which Messrs. Beck and Robbins are contending. Also a large cake and a handsome lamp are to be had. The receipts have been large and the fair may pay handsomely. It is to be hoped that the fair may pay handsomely.

Colonel John T. Grant, who is known to be a dead set of art, looked at the pictures and remarked:

"It is nonsense. I guess they will come out next and get the little boys out of my front yard. This is no worse than the 'Three Graces' that I have in my parlor."

Another citizen well up in art matters observed:

"The prosecution in this case has thrown itself right against the current of classic ancient and modern art from the days of the statuary of Praxiteles and the painting of Phidias to the present time."

Another citizen said:

"I am not so vulgar about these pictures. You will find me or all of them in a front yard."

Letters were read from quite a number, some making application for the position, while others were giving reasons why they should not be selected. The vestrymen thought best not to make their selection just yet, but to wait and move very cautiously in the matter. They are determined to make their choice of a rector a wise one, and therefore do not wish to act hastily.

Colonel John T. Grant, who is known to be a dead set of art, looked at the pictures and remarked:

"It is nonsense. I guess they will come out next and get the little boys out of my front yard. This is no worse than the 'Three Graces' that I have in my parlor."

Another citizen well up in art matters observed:

"The prosecution in this case has thrown itself right against the current of classic ancient and modern art from the days of the statuary of Praxiteles and the painting of Phidias to the present time."

Another citizen said:

Mr. Wright, who has been holding a fair in the basement of the new courthouse, last night held a meeting of the vestrymen of St. Philip's church, which was held in the vestry room of the church last night for the purpose of considering the selection of a master. There was full attendance but no definite action was taken in regard to the master. Letters were read from quite a number, some making application for the position, while others were giving reasons why they should not be selected. A MATTER OF PAVEMENT.

What the Asphalt Pavement asks at the Hands of the Street Commissioners.

Considerable interest is felt in the opening of the bids to day for paving the streets. The bids are virtually for all the work that will be done this year as all that work has been advertised for.

On Wednesday, Feb. 21, the Asphalt Pavement Co. placed a public meeting, opened for the purpose of bidding for some of the work. He said that by the terms of the specifications he was ruled out, they calling for simple Belgian blocks and no work. He said:

"I am endeavoring to get still trying to get the commissioners or themselves to think that paving of this work until we can be heard from. I am so far as we have the best price, the highest bid and all we will have the opportunity to broach. Atlanta is in an experimental stage as regards streets, and ought to give all systems a chance."

"Do you want to bid on the work?"

"Yes, sir. We don't care for it. We ship a few cars of asphalt to us of Pensacola, or any other street in the city. The pavement will then speak for itself. What we should want particularly is to get that asphalt or part of the job on which the asphalt has been put down. It has been charged that asphalt paving would not stand any handling. When we first went to Boston on the first of January, we were told that asphalt would not stand any handling. We will repeat that asphalt paving of this kind is good, and that asphalt paving is good, and we understand they have made a contract with some parties here to put down the same this year."

Lizzie Evans is "Fogg's Ferry." The presentation of C. E. Calahan's popular comedy—"Fogg's Ferry," at DaGiv's open house, last night drew a large audience. "Fogg's Ferry" is exceeding, so far as the plot is concerned, good scenery, and throughout is a series of brilliant scenes, full of comedy, wit, and kick to keep the audience in lively state of "spectacular attention." In this mirth provoking comedy, the matinee to-day, and the matinee to-night, will draw a full house. The author of the play, a child of the studio little feet size, with her long hair, bowery sling, tom boy ways, short dresses and all, will be the chief attraction. The audience is walking to the good graces of the Atlanta public as rapidly as she could desire.

Lizzie Evans, "Fogg's Ferry."

The following dispatch was received to day from Mobile, Ala., dated February 25, 10 p.m.: "The play was played in New Orleans Saturday and realized $2,000. Here, to day's matinee and night, over $2,000. Everything sold in Montgomery for to-morrow, excepting the tickets. Arthur B. Chase, speaking of the last performance, said: 'The artist in New Orleans, the Times-Democrat—the most noted critic of the United States—thus expresses his admiration of the play.'"

Last night was a triumphal one for Miss Rhea. At the academy of music, such a house as seldom seen before, the curtain rose to a scene of beauty and grace, with a goodly number of ladies in attendance. The Detroit Light Infantry marched to the brilliance of the occasion by their arrival in the hall, the audience was one of the most select that has grace the stage of the "School for Scandal," that delightful comedy, was given with a delicious zeal that must be witnessed to be believed. The lights shone through the curtains. The parquette was as crowded with ladies as the floor of the grand ballroom. All the lobbies were occupied. Miss Rhea is not an attraction for the gallery gods but for the ladies of the city. She is the belle of the ballroom, over and above all others. Her smile, her eyes, her voice, her gait, and her deportment, all charm, and all the devotions to this artist.
